

Dedication has never been an issue when it comes to me and you ~ so

Open your heart and let my love flow through because in this lifetime I'll Never find anything that compares to you - lilac pink diamonds, sapphires of sky blue even

The Amber star stone doesn't shine like you - Angelsite and Fireopal as exotic as they may Be will never shine like you baby - my words may seem far fetched, but if I could I'd

Etch your face in every star I could catch - you would be

A pathway to destiny - a galaxy with stones of Anatase - My every fantasy, the woman that every other one wants to be, the one that the world rarely sees - man! you remind me of Ireland's seas of emerald green with bottoms of

Aquamarine, the most beautiful woman ever brought into being so unique like Alexandrine

In Zambia, India, and places in between

Do I even need to tell you that you're my Queen or

That without you I don't have anything except the pain that loneliness brings - I

Open my soul for your inspection because without words we have a special

Connection - my love you're a blessing that

Only God can give, a

Mirror reflection of all that's positive, and keeps me going in the right direction

My reason to live and breathe - baby

I believe that there's nothing that can seize or see the love between you and me, but I must admit it will only work if you Don't be Afraid to Commit!

The story behind Don't be Afraid to Commit

I have been seeking a help mate for a few years and I was basically having a mental conversation with myself about what I would say to her about why she should commit to a man in my situation.