

Your Explanation
Turmoil

December
5,
2010

To: understanding?

From: outside looking in.

How do you open up to any woman? be honest in doing so without having fear that shes going to hurt you to the point where death seems better then life. im asking because id want a wife, kids and more importantly id want a real and uncompromisable love. im 28 years old im not crazy or deranged. im looking for help because id cant do this by myself. ive given my soul, heart to one then another just to have it sent into the ground after that id tend to look at women as being extraordinarily ~~powerful~~ fiercely hideous. For the ~~second~~ record id do not hate any women who walks this earth. id hate their actions that have me fighting myself. The inadequateness, the hurt or the comfortable franticness id slip into when a woman even approaches me. id would like to know how to get past this and trust again? trust without wonder, no ifs, just understanding.

Respectfully,

MRo Rucker

ps.

id find strength in honest wisdom so please be brutality human in your answers.