

INVESTING IN AMERICA

MY Fellow Americans, I come before you today March 29th 2011 and ask that you release the hatred that you have towards your fellow man/woman that is solely on the color of their skin.

Ladies and Gentlemen it is time we put the past behind us. This is no longer the segregated sixties.

How do we expect to move forward if we continue going backwards? How do we expect to put the fire out if we continue to bathe the flames in gasoline?

How do we honestly teach our children to love one another when we as adults have hatred for one another?

When president OBAMA was sworn into office he said "It is time for change" Well as a citizen of this great nation I ask: When does this change go into effect? When our children are killed because their skin color is different? When our nations population is equivalent to that of an Island? When will the slaughter stop?

When will we as Americans (not as whites, blacks, reds, or browns) set our differences aside and "Truly" become The United States of America? How do we expect to win wars against other countries if we can't stand united as a country? Sure we win wars. We win battles we stand united and Fight when there is a threat to our nation, but once the threat is removed we come back home and committ crimes against one another because our skin colors are different.

Ladies and Gentlemen, we are a threat to ourselves as a Nation. We fight the war on Terrorism, The War on Gangs, The war on Drugs etc. but what about the war we are continuously enduring and fatally partaking in every day here in America? We are killing our fellow Americans with a weapon that should have been disassembled long ago. That weapon is called Racism. And with a never ending supply of Ammunition called Hatred this is a war we will never win. There is no unity in segregation.

It is time we put the fire out and move forward. It is time we set our differences aside and stand united not just in war but AT ALL TIMES! STOP THE HATRED When this is done it is then and only then that we can truly take claim to our Great Nations name:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA!
