Our beliefs are the foundation of our life experiences.

I would venture to posit that a young impressionable mind imprinted images of a very turbulent and traumatic world. This chaos and mayhem broadcast over the air into my home during the 1960's, was overwhelming — to say the least.

I had to figure all this out and see some type of order from the chaos, and therein win this apparent fight for life.

Survival of the fittest, is the Law of Nature, since the paradigm of Abel and Cain established the orderly arrangement of our world.

Naturally!

P.S. I am a life-prisoner for figuring this out, and as I am always subject to being thrown in the hole for one thing or another... I wish someone would write me at the address above if and ever I don't post a blog every fortnight or so. In such case, please be sure to send me the address "425103-02142, Cambridge", so I may resume blogging. Stamps or stamped envelopes will be a welcomed help in the hole too.
