

Hello Paul,

Your feedback made me realize that no matter what, mistakes will be made. The lesson is learning from those mistakes and applying what you learn to your everyday living to better not only your life, but those whose life you may have some connection to!

Taking responsibility for the decisions we make, good and bad, allows us to grow and prosper. And understanding this cycle of life, will hopefully encourage others that forgiveness and second chances are the keys to healthy relationships.

May God Bless You!!