

Another Day &amp; Thoughts

GREETINGS world within a world, again with CAUSE AND REASONING my pen manifest thoughts formulated by truth AS I know. I'm optimistic - ie. many was able to embrace my "Ms. Africa" salute for mother's day, and all others not mis-understand why that poem was manifested.

None-the-less, I recognize most of the people here on these American soils have been in a state of bliss since the killing of "O. bin. Laden," a time to celebrate so it seems to many.

I myself in no way, shape, form nor fashion behold compassion or sympathy for any who kills innocent people as "O. bin. Laden" has done far as I know. Still I never knew there was a time when it was acceptable to celebrate a killing of any human being. I guess conflicted beliefs, confusion, and a great sense of hatred can make most place their virtue standards aside and act out of mere emotions.

Furthermore, I refuse to be judgemental, even though i've been wrongfully and far mis-judged myself. But I will say peace be to you all, don't never denigrate your virtue standards due to hatred...

EARLIER today my next door neighbor and I held a conversation with the subject matter being about, "most people in the world speak of wanting the best out of life but NEVER truly do what it takes to obtain the best." Which the conversation led to us individuals under these oppressive prison conditions longing for and wanting freedom, but not many truly put ambition into bringing that longing or want into manifestation. I think back to many I've spoken with out in that semi free world, always saying, "it's getting so hard out here." And some have even gave up due to the adversity placed upon their path, "a very sad situation," but a reality that has come into existence. Just as it is a reality under these prison conditions, I've witness the mass of prisoners give up and accept these far un-humane circumstances by simply not educating self, or just unable to handle the adversity imposed. The question that found means to flow through my mind while in the depths of adversity was: How could I or anybody for that matter accept un-humane conditions when you are not a atrocity reflective individual? How could you all in life accept less, when you

Behold the ability to manifest the best on every level known to the conscious mind frame.

For 16 years now, on my own all alone, I seeked for my freedom with different odds against me. And I will never give up and accept less than I desire or truly deserve, just as nobody else should give up and accept less than they desire or deserve.

So as I tell all my comrades, family, and associates, "never stop seeking the best for your-self." And I believe that old statement, "all worthy of having is worth working hard for through all odds and adversity placed upon your path."

With that being said, I leave as I came in "PEACE". We are the beholders of our own fate, the human race is the superior race, and with the ten sense's we behold there is nothing we can't manifest...

Sincerely,
