I would like to wish every mother out there a very blessed, enjoyable, and Happy Mother's Day. Although, everyday should be Mother's Day, for all the unconditional love, comfort and support you give to your child(ren), on a daily basis. There is no greater love, than that between a mother and her babies.

For me, some holiday's are very painful, and bitter sweet. it will be 16 years since my mama passed, and whoever, said that, "Times heals a broken heart", lied. And they lied in a big way, because I am here to tell you, you never fully recover, and your heart never feels whole again.

Over the years, I have learned to become very malleable to her not being here. Nevertheless, sometimes it seems so very surreal to me, because I still expect to see her, hear her, and feel her arms around me.

Family is extremely important, and when I see the news and hear about fratricides, matricides, or any type of homicides, especially between family, it saddens me. Family is all you have. I have never had the pleasure of having children, but I have had the pleasure of having an outstanding parent. So, I know what love feels like, I know how it looks, and taste, and I have also, had the pleasure of raising several of my younger cousins. It is so critical that in this day and age, you embrace and hold your loved ones even closer to you.

To see a mother with her children is the most precious thing in the world. And, I would like to say to all the children who has kind, caring, loving and compassionate parents, love them. Love them, tell them and show them everyday how very much you appreciate them.

Celebrate your mother, on Mother's Day. Let her know that she is special and very important to you, and were it not for her love, guidance, support, and nurturing, you would not be here. I would give anything to be able to tell my mama one more time just how very much she meant to me. So, do not waste a moment letting your mother know how much she means to you.

To all the mother's out there, thank you. Thank you for having that maternal instincts within your core. I thank the Lord, that you raised us, and we very much appreciate all the love that you gave to us. Mother's are our greatest of champions, and they should be honored everyday.

Also, don't wait until Mother's Day, to spoil, pamper, and cater to your mother. Flowers, cards, candy, are sold all year around. Phone calls, I love you's, cost nothing. A dinner doesn't have to be expensive, you can even cook it yourself. Burnt or excellent, I bet she will love every bite, when made from love how can it not taste good! Your love just has to be undying, unyielding and unconditional...That is Priceless.

Sincerely,

Tere
