

Instead of trying to force the day I want, let me embrace the day I am given.

4-23-11

Change begins with the willingness to make a modest effort each day. To at least try to let God be God and let His truth be my truth - I betray what I believe when I push against events and other people. Naturally, if some change is helpful to me or another, I make it. But simply put, it's a fact that life is happier when I listen to the music behind the scenery than when I nosily try to rearrange it.

Rechell Williams
CORCORAN State Prison, CA
<http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/507/>