

My Life on Five Acres
BLOG

By Joaquin Jordan J-27227

#3

Some Days

May 2, 2011

Some days I want to die
Days when my environment is pounding on my soul
And I look within and I see that it has been pitted and pocked

Some days I want to die
When they say my blue clothes have stained my humanity
And I look within and I can't see through the blue

But I never chase death
Because death does not run
And is easily caught

I've been reading books with metaphysical hooks
And magazines full of other people's dreams
I even picked up "O", but it didn't move my whoa

I've asking around for directions
I've been looking for poems to inspire me
I've been hitting F1 searching for a solution

I guess I've been thinking too much and living too little
I guess I'll just be still today