

4-22-11
9:45 PM
Friday

Thermodynamics

The Physics of Heat

Is it the way she hugs me when i come in the house from work? Is it the way we fight like theres no tomorrow, then make love as if it was the last time we are going to see each other? Is it the way she gives me that quater smile when she thinks i'm not paying attention? Is it the way she loves just being rubbed or maybe the fact that she loves to do it. Is it her smile in full bloom shining brighter than a beacon of hope. Is it the way she kisses my neck in the right spots to drive me into endless bliss? Is it the way we have unscheduled pillow fights for no other reason than just because? Physics of heat. i think thermodynamics of this kind are based on two people who care about each other? accept one another regardless of, what, without prejudice, love, overstanding, wisdom are blind to prejudice, so why hold something against someone if you wholeheartedly love that person? forgive them? teach them how to better themselves so it doesn't happen again, why, because love is only one part of the physics of heat.

written By: Brandy Rucker.

my feelings about love.