

Responses

You have no idea how exciting it is to receive your comments. I figure the least I can do is answer them. As far as I know, I have received all responses through July 10, but I can't be sure.

bozzi3 - How not surprising? Erica, you were the first one to write me after I got locked up, the first one to visit me, and now the first to post a comment on my blog. You can't possibly still have the shmut. Brian thought so highly of you and helped me to realize just how special you are.

By the way, best letter I have received in quite some time and answering it is next on my To Do List so you will hear from me soon.

loretta - You have been my most consistent writer the past few years so it should be no surprise that you also comment more than anyone. Don't think this means I'm not expecting a response to my last letter. :)

Thanks for spreading the word. I'm stealing your thought for the day. Actually, just last week, our priest Father O'Connor, talked about gossip in his homily.

As for how fast is my time in the Runners Club races - not very. I used to run way faster in college, but there's other factors at work here that slow us down. It's fun and exciting though and that is all I care about. That said, we (Alex and I) are getting faster and should set some records this year.

alfromri - Nice to hear from you buddy. This is as close to writing as you have come so I really appreciate it. Hope all is well. I need an address for you.

zoomzoomro - Thanks for the feedback. Always nice to hear from you. Hope the family is well. Spread the site around. It's been a while but you always seem to check in and I appreciate that.

Until next time...