

Missing Persons

There are certain people missing from my life today due to my choices. Some people are missing because life at times is funny that way. Others choose for themselves for their own reasons to be missing persons in my life. Yet, my heartaches for them like crazy.

I've got two older brothers, who by all that is holy mean the world to me. One I haven't seen since I was 17; Roger is the essence of good and beautiful. My life long dream is to one day be hugged by my brother again. Robert Nick the ~~exact~~ ^{exact} opposite of my brother Roger; the essence of life within his veins - hasn't spoken to me since 2003 or 2004. Man - a girl always needs her older brothers even when she says she doesn't need anyone.

(Forgive my mistakes - this is not coming easy for me.)

I have two younger sisters I haven't seen since I was 15 and went on vacation to spend two weeks with them. Margaret Jean & Amanda; trying to locate my sisters since I only have the old address in Ft Collins, Colorado has proven difficult. However, I refuse to lose hope. I'll find them one day.

My two older sisters Selina and Gina are beautiful, smart, and truthfully guarded. I last spoke to Gina the night my (our) mother passed away. Selina, I write to, but I haven't the faintest clue whether she reads my mail or not. Maybe one ^{day} God will straighten it all out.

My Uncle Jerry and Aunt Cindy Loftin are supposedly in the Midland/Odessa region. I'm sniffing at trails trying to locate them. My family so scattered.

This is probably why I long for family and a sense of belonging. The missing persons in my life all have left marks on my heart & soul. A void must be filled.

My ~~own~~ second Mom Lori Crawford-Rounsavall is who right at this very moment I wish I was seeing. She'd wipe the tears from my eyes. She'd hold me. She always made me feel safe & loved. Damn - I miss her.

If you have persons you love missing from your life I urge you to reach out to them. Try to make amends & heal your relationships. If you never try - then you'll never know.

6/12/11

Happy Birthday

Hey Precious - just wanted you to know that you are very much thought about. I pray that you have a very wonderful & blessed birthday. I know your birthday is not until the 3rd but I'm used to being early + not late (LOL)

No, this about cut isn't long, - but it's the context that matters I love you. Happy Birthday Precious!

♡ nichole

