

"Bloggers" Friends- Looking for friendship & Love ???

hey whats up how you all doing. so what are your plans for the 4th of July. it has been so long since I've seen fireworks I think I forgot what they look like!

so let me put this question to all of you anybody who is reading this please give me your input.

I'm a 36 year old man I'm doing a life sentence in prison all the so called friends that I had on the streets have stoped writing and stoped visiting. I don't ask for money I have a paying job here in prison and I survive. I'm loving, caring and I think now I make a very good friend. Read my profile I've done everything that I know how to make up for the wrongs that I have done. so tell me is there true friendship or true love out there? and if there is how can a lifer find it? or am I doomed to be alone? I guess its time for me to get to work. so if anybody wants please look at my profile and my picture if you like what you read and you like what you see write back. hope to hear from you soon.
