

Well I felt like sharing my thoughts with you on the state the world is in. The lives we live suck so horribly that it's no wonder that our young people are running around killing themselves or each other. You want to know who to blame? You are, each and everyone of you out there know how ~~frked~~ up everything is but your god damned lazy to do anything about it. You say there is nothing you can do to change the way things are, after it's the way of the world and we all know one person can't change the world. So I guess Gandhi, Alexander The Great, Hitler, Napoleon, Washington, Mother Theresa and even Bin Laden are all imaginary figures. It's all about laziness people, it's easier to hate, to blame, to turn a blind eye than to get off your asses to make things better. You put your faith in a God in heaven who will reward you for your suffering in life by giving you some wonderful afterlife, what a crock of shit. It's easier to pour hate in anyone whose different because they have to be the reason nothing is the way it's supposed to be. You've convinced yourselves that race, religion, sexual preference, sex and age, even difference in commercial value of property is or are good reasons to hate because if they aren't exactly like you they have to want what you have and if they don't, then they are weird and untrustworthy. Stop it already, you can't truly be that stupid. I can prove what I say, have you ever told a joke that would be hurtful or degrading toward anyone else? Why are those jokes funny to you? Look don't you realize how easy it is, all you have to do is smile at everyone you pass on the street tomorrow. You will change each of those people's day in a small way and for the better. Try it and see if it doesn't work, at the very least it can't hurt.

PEACE ☺ DOWNY
