

8/29/11 Response to James Calvin Miller ☺

Baby,

You loving me helps me know that this trip to prison was apart of God's plan. What the devil intended for bad, God turned to good. He blessed my life with you. God is going to perform His word over us and our lives. He is faithful. I know He is. Look, how far we've come. I love you more and more each day. My release, Baby, believe that I've already got it in Jesus' name. I swore am. ☺ I look forward to more photos, but I guess it'll be a second. It's ok, I'm trusting God! I know "we fit" too! Can't wait to watch the way God does this for us. I'm ready to kick demon butt with you on my side. We can definitely go far together with God. We most assuredly will prove the people wrong. Lets love... From the bottom to the top! I know you aren't punishing me. You love me too much for that. You are busy (and I realize this too. Doesn't make it any easier when I long to read words of love to me.) Especially when they come from you. I do long for the day I'm home. Soon, Baby, Soon!

All of me -
Nichole

Things I Think You'll Say

I hate you've missed my birthdays and watching me grow through the years.

I hate your choices that have caused me heart-ache and tears.

I hate the drugs that took control and stole you away from me.

I hate the crimes you committed that robbed you of years you could've been free.

I hate the men you chose who took away your joy and your peace.

I hate your decisions that have kept you from your release.

I hate the sadness I have felt and it's all because of you.

I hate the void in my heart for the mom that I never knew.

I hate the fact you've missed so much in this life of mine, however, I think I'm ready to know you, it'll just take time.

I know two things better than the rest of these:

I love you and I forgive you - come into my life, please?!

Why I wrote the poem: Things I Think you'll say
One day I was thinking of what my daughters would say to me upon finding me. These things I wrote about are things I believe anyone of my 3 daughters would be justified in saying to me. The last part is what I long in my heart to hear them say.

They owe me nothing; I owe them everything. I want to hold them, wipe their tears & be the mom I was before the drugs & the lifestyle.
However, we turn not back the hand of time,
we can only change to become a better part of the future.

I do pray for the chance and opportunity to see the three beautiful faces of my daughters soon. God willing it'll be quicker than I even think... In Jesus name,

In the meantime, I continue to pray & love my girls from where I am at.

Be Blessed

Saturday A.M

"Somebody, please turn off the alarm!" Ok, that's my job. Time to get up and get tissue. The day I really wish I could sleep in. (LOL) I look so forward to the day I'm not issued my tissue. How I long to roll over into the arms of the man I love so deeply, knowing that I'm his everything as he is mine. Damn, James really does love me...

Maybe, I'll wake up to breakfast in bed, a kiss on my cheek and a child saying, "Look, what I did!" knowing he had all the help from his daddy. Maybe, I'd be woken up by my pit licking my face wanting to go out. 😊 At least I'd be waking up in the free and not here in prison.

Man, that's what I'm longing for. A comfortable, semi-hard mattress, a bunch of pillows, a.c., strong arms holding me... and a Saturday morning where I can sleep in. 😊

I could even stand being woken up to be made love to the put back to bed until the afternoon. What a wonderful Saturday that would be. I just got to get home. Lord, help me... I really, really, really want to be home @ Christmas! Lord, thank you for the blessing to come.

What's up Waco!

Man them boyz on fy-ah! They done put Waco on the set w/ 104.9 the beat. This local station plays Street Beatz from 8-10 on Sunday nights. Local artist getting the music they make played. Not only that but they actually laying down tracks that are off the chain.

Some these boys been doing this so long + it's time they get they due. Just makes me wish my brother Manna + the FAM was out grinding on these waves too. Soon -- God willing...

They say that our city is blowing up... I do believe it. If they let some of these boys into the industry... Man, the south gonna know about the 'Co. Say, I'm just reppin my city.

North side, baby... Herring Street Hustlers, Big Red, Parkside + the Villages... what it do? South side, what's up? Man. - I just miss home. I know it, baby!

Eastside... Hillsboro drive boyz... dread loc, too many of y'all...

Westside too... Well I shouted out to all 4 corners... But that's nothing new. What's different is me. The only way I'm shouting out is this way...

~~Safest~~ way. (LOL)

Naw waco, y'all keep it playz!

Peace & love
