

DEAR Readers,

10-5-2011

Hello there, my name is Robert and i'm writing this to let you know how us prisoners feel inside this side of these fences'. You see I have 90 days with gain time left until my release date, I should be happy, and yes i'm happy to be going home after all these years, But, i'm also lonely. Do you know how it feels to have that lonely feeling? If you do, then you'll be able to relate to my pain. I thought the closer i got to coming home that i'd atleast start hearing from family & friends more than i am doing right now. Well, i wish i could say that was true, but i'm having a vice versa effect, There are weeks that go by that i never receive mail from anyone, even my own family. Can you even imagine how this makes me feel? Well, it makes me feel like crap, & i wonder why i'm on depression medication, but i'm tryin to make the best of this situation. I can only imagine how people feel inside here with a life sentence, and i give my prayers & respect to those who have done all there lives behind these fences or hell hole. There's days that go by, that i want to end all the pain & misery, but my inner strength keeps me moving on. You see i've lost all my close family to death, atleast those who really cared about me, So can you feel my pain? IF not than try puttin' yourselves in my shoes, and let me know how you'd deal with the pain & misery?

Sincerely,
