

10-12-11 Charge It 2 Da Game

We got a saying when somethin' dont go right where I'm down that goes... Charge it to the game. I'm going to chalk this one up a charge it to the game. One thing, two things for sure: I'm a good woman & your loss is someone else's gain!

You see, Gregory Clay Dr. aka Red Mann does me unconditionally. He ain't going no where. He ain't lyin' or cheating... Now my step son is the one ~~the~~ person who did never let go ob. He's like my own blood. He knows they got sisters & NO MAN who in a man is going to tell me I can't be there for him. See... he won't get charged to the game... you will though.

Let me go on and tell you a few things... where I come from & where I've been put me in situations I had to get straight grimey. I've been in situations where I had to charge it to the game I was in. Let... I know that I was a good woman to man I cared for. When they proved themselves unworthy they got charged to the game.

You thought you were above reproach but you weren't. You need to really get yourself together because you'll only keep women who have no self respect, self esteem, or a begin' back bone. But see... I got all three ob them. I got alot ob backbone - I just play meek.

I don't do men who feel they can dictate my thought, actions or emotions... No by boy. Nor do I do a man who tries to be controlling... especially when the Deck is self controlled. So, I'll charge it to the game that I saw the best in you until you showed me the worst in you.

You know... one thing I'm convinced ~~about~~ about @ the end of the night is the regrets not going to be mine. Now... you'll regret what you did over the last 17 months... when you see me ~~still~~ you'll realize what you threw away. You charge that to the game.

By the way is a man to be head of the house hold he should conduct himself as provider instead of letting other people take on that responsibility. You see... I've always been the head of my household but I've always been the provider, because I didn't depend on them to take care of me. They had whatever they desired & when I left I charged it all to the game.

Now that I look @ this from all sides I know this is a lesson learned & the last time I charge it to the game. Met Jesus' will make two deep & when he changes my mind I'll let him open a new door... one to a love that will last forever...

You charged me to the game...
I charged us to the same... -
