"VOLUNTEER HELP WANTED"

Greetings,

With profound gratitude and humility, deathrowinmate.org invites your participation in the blossoming development of what promises to become the world's largest grassroots human rights and anti-death penalty social network.

The Death Row Inmate Project is a volunteer collaboration which continues to grow from the calls for global recognition of systematic fallibilities within the capital punishment conflict, as well as wrongful convictions resulting in death sentences from broken judicial systems here and abroad.

Born in the flames of adversity, (DRI) remains even now, the direct product of the existential crisis of men and women alike on death row. Through education, we intend to assist like-minded organizations in their respective capacities to bring campaigns for amnesty, clemency, pardons, and other forms of relief for the wrongfully convicted, reconnecting with humanity and a moral sense of conviction while principally-reminded of the triumph in the human spirit.

Consider using your skillset or passion to assist us in any number of efforts we have brewing at DRI. Still in our infancy, we need all the help we can muster and welcome all forms of voluntarism for our projects. We will do our part to help where we can, be it with recommendations to your future employers, documentation for the court, counselors, or feedback for a class project of your own. In the end, it's about helping one-another in the shared fight ahead.

Welcome Aboard!!
