

Reply ID# v7k2

Hey little Brit, I really appreciate your response and you're right I need my meds badly but I have to keep this legal work rolling or everything that I am going through is for nothing. I wish there was someone in here I could talk to but I'm afraid that there really isn't anyone in prison who you can call a friend. You wouldn't believe the bull that gay dudes go through in here, from guards and prisoners. And even though I'm openly gay the other gay dudes don't hang with me because I'm a fighter, a good sized guy and not feminine at all. I don't mean to whine but I'm pretty much a serious outcast. I'm pretty good writer, poems, short stories and novels but you have to have a typewriter in order to send submissions to publishing companies. If I could find someone in the free world who I could trust not to steal my stuff I could hire a lawyer within a few months. Now shit has gotten worse, the judges are kicking my cases out, I have been jumped and beaten so badly so many times and with the guards and administration letting it happen, that I'm ashamed to say that I have been giving all my meds to the white power gangs so that they won't hurt me anymore. I've also been doing things to the people they tell me to have sex with, after all I'm a faggot and I like that shit anyway. But hearing from you helps, it lets me know that there are people out there who care and it makes it a little easier. You take care of yourself and happy holidays. Peace ☺️