

N A R R O

My love for Rap, R & B, and performing grew since I been in prison. Although I did rap and sing before I came to prison it was behind these walls that I really realized the gift I had and I began perfecting it.

I started with writing creative raps with interesting deliveries and sounds. Occasionally I'd write an R & B chorus and I realized I could really sing...well others did [HA HA]. It was those around me that heard me sing and would say "you can really sing".

One day while in Waupun Maximum Security Prison I was outside rapping a track that I wrote called "That's Life" and when I started my second verse a guy playing basketball stopped playing in the middle of the game and said "are you serious! Rap that again."

I repeated the second verse to "That's Life" and he was like "Man they call me Narro and that is hot." Narro and I began to hang out and come to find out he is the best rapper I've heard dead or alive but let him tell it I am [HA HA]. None the less we begun to kick it about music, family, life, and many other things...We became good friends.

We have maintained contact over the past 8 to 10 years and at times we found a listening ear in one another when we felt no one was listening. I can proudly say that Narro is my best friend and I feel honor to have learned so much from him and simply be a part of his life.

Thank you Narro for simply being you and showing me so much. ..Berf [smile]. We have a lot achieve out there and Hip Hop is where it started with us and where it will end...be easy my friend.

Other Homies I Met In Prison:
