

WRITE ME DIRECTLY

Its nice sending in these blog entries because I get a chance to vent about things that comes to my mind and it seems like each time I drop my blogs in the mail, a piece of me gets to leave this place.

I've received a couple blog replies and its very interesting to read the comments that people have about what I write. I'm always amazed by others take on each topic and most responses are very insightful. However, they seem very impersonal at times as well.

The only thing I see when the comments are sent to me is something like this: Rainbow 76, (and then the comments). Sometimes the comments are so good that I would like to respond but I can't because there's no link to continue communication.

So please write to me directly if possible or leave a mailing address so I can respond to your comments. I want to socialize communicate and network with positive and insightful people so please feel free to contact me.

I'm sure writing a letter and sending it in the mail may seem prehistoric in this technological world we live in (HA HA), but none the less if you have the time, drop me a line. Until then be peaceful, remain humble, and stay focused on success, or whats important to you.

Questions?

When was the last time you wrote a letter?

Do you even know what a stamp costs? [Smile]
