

Reply 18VI

I am glad that my latest posting 'A little bout me' is and has been inspiring and eye-opening. I'm also glad to know that you enjoyed reading and transcribing it; even though that reply was for someone else, I asked that it be posted as a regular blog in hopes that others would see my past, but focus on my plans for the future. The post is and was a way for me to exercise a few demons from my past while building a strong foundation for my future. I'm truly hoping that my blog postings will change one life for the better and keep them from going down the path that I chose; I'm also hoping that word of my blog will spread and that more people will get a chance to know me. I have so much to share about my life, past, present and future ~ I also hope to find people who are focused on the betterment of the community and self so that we can share ideas. last but not least I'm hoping to find a special someone that is willing to get to know me while looking past my current situation. I want to close this by asking that anybody who reads this blog please!! place me on facebook, craigslist, yahoo, blackplanet, myspace or any other free sites... My information can be requested by writing to: Amondo Duckworth - 418846

FIC

PO Box 200

Fox Lake, WI 53933

The more people I can reach with my message, the better