

LOST BIRTH FAMILY

2-13-12

Will I be able to find my birth family in the confines of prison? Where would I start to look? These questions often goes through my head. I sit and watch these shows about reuniting families, wishing that one day it would happen to me.

I was born on July 17, 1984, in Grand Haven, Michigan with my last name as Taylor. I had a brother named Georgie and a sister named Sabrina, while Georgie was young than me, Sabrina was older than us. I was not taken away from my birth family until about age 2. Georgie and Sabrina were not placed into foster care until soon after I was. At age 4, I was adopted through Bethany Christian Services to my new family with last name of Johnson. Recently I contacted this agency and they claim that there is no record of my adoption nor any of my siblings. I don't even know if the Michigan courts sealed my adoption proceedings but I know my birth certificate only reflects my adoption.

If any one has knowledge or information about my birth family or where I can look being that I am confined in prison. I will attach a few photos that may help in the search when I am able to.

BLOG POST #2

LOST FAMILY TIES

2-13-12

Six years ago, in April, my adopted sister Sherry Lindgren disowned my parents because they decided to take my other sister Shane and her baby into my parent's home and later another baby girl was born to Shane. Sherry has not called or written because my parent still choose to raise Shane's babies as God has asked them to. However, Sherry's granddaughter (Kevin's daughter) was due to be born when she stopped communicating with my parents. Sherry used to work at Graceland University and lived in Lamoni, Iowa near the University. If anyone knows about Sherry or any of the granddaughter being born since, me and my adopted parents would greatly appreciate the leads.