

" G O D H A V E I F A I L E D Y O U "

I was saved in Waupun Maximum Security Prison.... I mean literally had an "Ah Ha" moment while watching Donnie McClurkin sing "We Fall Down" and gave my life to Christ. I walked with God for a few years after that and I was in the choir, fellowshiped, read the Word daily and truly gave myself up to the will of God.

In 2008 I began to experience things in my personal life and I took them all to prayer only to have them get worse. I loss a relationship, family, friends, and slowly I began to lose my faith. The more doubt I began to have the more I tried to seek refuge in the Word but I didn't feel safe there... I remember telling God "Please lighten my load, its getting too heavy" and it got heavier.

I gave up... I threw away all my religious writings, books, studies... everything. Gradually things went from bad to worse for me and I intentionally distanced myself from God, religion, the Word...everything.

However, there's still something inside of me that yearns for a drop of happiness I had in any day I had with the Lord.... Maybe I'm ashamed to pray, seek counsel, or simply read the scriptures again. Daily I ask myself, "God have I failed you". I'm unsure of the answer and I'm wondering what the blog readers think.

Questions??

Do you think I failed God?

Have you ever lost focus spiritually?

What did you do to get back on track?
