

B O O K S . . . . I L O V E ' M

No exaggeration, I've read over 1000 books since I been in prison. I've read books on culture, religion, politics, psychology, philosophy, social psychology, crime, romance, murder, economics, fiction, non-fiction, and the list goes on. Books have opened my mind to new ideas, concepts, creations, and out looks on life.

Every day I read something. Not to long ago I finished "The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo" and I really enjoyed it. When I seen the previews for the new movie and the head actress looked exactly how I envisioned the girl with the dragon tattoo to look like.

I just recently found out that James Patterson wrote more additions to his Alex Cross series and I'm trying to figure out what they are so I can get them. I can't wait to get out and get one of those Kindle or Nook things that holds a lot of books because I <sup>won't</sup> stop reading once I get out.

I'm always looking to read something new or interesting so if you got any ideas or suggestions shoot them my way. I'll try to post what I'm currently reading..... right now its "Last Aerie" By: Brian Lumley. What else can I say other than "Books.....I Love'm" (smile).

Questions???

What's your favorite book?
