

L I N - P R I S O N

I just watched the Nicks verses Dallas game and witnessed the skills of Jeremy Lin. The media has tilted him as "Lin-Sainty" and his story as a 5'3" freshmen in high school blossoming to play for Harvard, and then having a shaky start in the N.B.A. has been nothing less than remarkable.

I also watched an interview with Jeremy Lin and he talked about how everyone thought he was good because he was receiving an N.B.A. check but internally he battled within knowing he wasn't measuring up to the basketball player he knew he truly was. He went on to say that prior to coming to the Nicks he simply wanted to fit in and that caused him to be ineffective. He ultimately decided if given the chance to play in New York he'd be himself and give it his all.

Being himself has paid off and he's become one of the most popular people on You Tube, Twitter, Google and the media. While in "Lin Prison" he was trapped in his fears, anxieties doubts and the choices of an identity that was truly not himself. Once he was freed from "Lin Prison", accepted change, made room to grow, and was true to what and who he is....he was successful.

I myself seek to free myself from "Lin Prison" and not give up on life, while being myself, like Jeremy Lin. In hopes i find true success like he has. Like Jeremy Lin.... I must never give up....hard work and determination will free you from "Lin - Prison" and ultimately reward you with success.

Questions

What is your " Lin - Prison" story?

Visit and share my blog:

<http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/2042>

Write me directly at:

Marcus T. Rogers Jr. 377571
WSPF / P.O. Box 9900
Boscobel, WI. 53805