

NEW HOME

Well I'm finally at my new unit and they are seriously punishing me for the move. I have no access to the library because I am still considered to be on transit. At this time I have no access to mail because they are not in any hurry to give me my indigent pack and without it I lose contact with my pen pals and the courts I have. Civil cases in and the court connected with my criminal appeal. So the 3 most important things going on in my life are being denied me. It's OK though, they won't be able to keep me down for long. Peace 'down

Here is some lyrics and a couple poems for you, I hope you enjoy em.

Freakin' Stein

I'm drawn to your sex with my jewels in a bag they've twisted my mind and call me a fag, It's not your life I'm after feel me drive my hand point home There's no need for you to worry cause together we are strong

Chorus:

I'm societies beast craving sexual release our bodies burn with every stroke Don't be afraid you're just getting laid, but pull back before I start to choke

My piece is so hard but my soul is in shards I'll devour your sweetness when you share my bed I'll suck your inhibition and spit out a wisp of heat your life begins in ecstasy the key is my hot, grabbing meat

Ch:

Bridge:

You can feel my excitement as you sit in the dark your hearts start beating faster it's time for us to start giving up all your resistance your body morphing through my love you scratch and moan while blowing a load freeing your mind as our bodies explode

I need 2 more verses, still working on it.

Immortality

As the time goes flying by we wish to leave our mark struggling and straining hard to set ourselves apart The things we build, stand so high shining in the sun But will these monuments we raise be our proof when we are gone?
