

LOST IN A TECHNOLOGICAL AGE

People don't write letters anymore!!! With Face Book, My Space, Tagged, Twitter, Texting, E-mailing, Etc... the art of sitting down and writing a letter has simply been lost.

We now pay bills on-line, do banking on-line, place orders on-line, and the actual act of using the Postal Service has become so uncommon that the Postal Service has pulled back on their services due to Societies lack of its use.

As prisoners our connection with family and friends is being lost in a technological age as well. Now days it seems like such a huge task for our family, friends, and loved ones to sit, write a letter, seal it in an envelope, and drop it in the mail compared to doing things with the click of a button. In addition to that the idea of waiting days to receive a response from someone when society is responding instantaneously with technology it seems like forever.

Please don't forget about us! We love you, care for you and need your support more than you'll ever know. Take the time to write us, express your love, talk about your day, and include us in your lives. Letters take longer but they are piece of us that can be physically touch by one another... that means a lot to many of us.

Take the time to sit and write a letter to someone today...prisoner or not.
