Dark Complexion / Light Complexion! (Does it Matter)? 4-25-12

Music plays through my Koss Headphones, But my mind is Locked in on these thoughts that as a child I never felt would play apart in the way life has turned out...

But, then I was lost to the true History of the Colored Complexion Race. But the more I study the more reality comes clear... I mean race comes down to Light Skin OR Dark Skin an not just Black or White.

Think of your school Day's when the darker skin people would jump on White or Light Skin people! They said that the Lighter, Complexion were House Negro's an to soft (weak) to claim their Race. Not of them folded, but I've met some of the strongest, Light Complexion people that will run circles around the best in a areas. I've also read on some of the Greatest such as → Huey Newton, George Jackson and all the way up to Mr. Barack Obama.

So they are not what so many claim. Yet there is a split why? They say Dark Skin people are full of anger, rage, and use violence against the Lighter people in the world, because they feel they've had the roughest side of the coin. But we fall under Afro-American Culture. The Light Skin come from the rappen of African slaves point blanks. So shouldn't they too hole again to know that down the line their grandmother of so long again was violated in the worsted way? So does it matter? My answer is not really! I mean I'm not dark, I'm not light either, so where my complexion come into this madness? I've had both Light-n-Dark. So I've dealt with bad, good, smart, dumb, and foolish in both. But Light Skin are more soft hearted to others (Kinder) darker skin are just more meaner. But a good heart can be found in both and, that's what matter. Love, Trust, understanding and goodness. (Done)

matters in my book, but (IN BED) I love that long Black Stallion jumping in the Doll... Ha Ha Ha
SO Does it matter to you?
