Courtney_G,

It was great to hear from you again! There was a delay in your response to the questions I last sent to you, so I was curious if you ever got them. However, I can see that your studies consume a lot of your time, so the delay is well understood. I'm just glad you could read my terrible

Handwriting (Ha Ha!).

So...Let me say Google Earth sounds Amazing! Who would've ever thought those satellites could zoom in so close. You breaking all of that down really helps me out. I'm writing an Urban Novel called "The Life of Killa J" and it takes place in various cities so I was interest in city maps to reference streets while writing my book. Question:

#1. Does Google Earth have city maps with street names?

#2. If yes, would you print and mail me the maps to these cities?

Los Angeles, CA; San Diego, CA; Milwaukee, WI; Buffalo, NY; New York, NY.

Thanks for telling me how the economy has impacted you as a student. It's very revealing to me given the fact I intended on continuing my education when I get out. Question:

Do you work and attend school? If yes, How difficult is that?

One of the changes I made in prison is understanding the importance of education and hardwork. It may sound silly, but most of the questions I ask you I genuinely have no knowledge of. I know we live in an ever growing technological world and to be oblivious to the functions of it can hold me back in schooling, business, work, and even socially. Your assistance has been very insightful, and I'm truly grateful.

You are very articulate and do a really good job with breaking this stuff down. I joked to myself, "Courtney G must work at an electronics store" (ha ha). You're obviously a very bright woman and I'm sure you're doing well in school. Question:

What are you studying in college??

I didn't know the blog limited the space to type, so it would probably be best if you wrote me directly. I know the idea of putting a kite in the mail is so prehistoric, but I would get your responses sooner and would be able to respond to you sooner as well.

I do have more question, and I'll put them at the end of this letter. For now though I want to say thanks for taking the time out of your schedule and sending me this information. It has all be very helpful and I appreciate it. I've had a lot on my mind lately and I've been kinda down, so your comments and a few others I received have been very encouraging. With that, I can't thank you enough. Until next time, be peaceful and let joy overwhelm you daily.
