

Response to Comments 4dmc

June 5 2012

①

Spilled milk,

Hello, I hope you actually read my response. I meant to get to it alot sooner but things have been crazy around here lately. Sorry about that. I hope you are doing well! How did your speech for school go? Thanks for slacking a bit and instead, taking the time to read my blog and comment on it. Also, thank you so much for transcribing it for me. I know that probably took forever. It means alot. Thank you!!

My life has been miserable lately. About 2 weeks ago the airconditioner went out on my building. According to the administration they had to order a part. Its obvious that they arent getting into any sort of hurry, but then again they arent locked in an 8' by 10' cement and steel cell with no air circulation. For those of you who do not know, it gets hot in Texas. All this steel and cement only magnify it. Hopefully they get it fixed soon.

Spilled milk, in your comments you also had a few questions. Ill try to answer them now.

No I was not released on parole earlier this year. I guess thats kind of obvious. I was given a 3 year set off which means im not eligible for parole again until late 2014. Im not really sure why they done that. Ive done my best to follow the rules. I really stopped trying to figure these people out years ago. Theres nothing I can do, so I guess I won't cry over spilled milk. 😊

About me having to buy my court transcripts. During the pre trial period, the defendant is given a copy of the papers requested by the attorney. Those papers were sent to my mother for safe keeping. Now for whatever reason she has chosen not to send them to me. A few years back I had a legal organization offer to help me but I couldnt provide any information without my transcripts. I wrote the County Clerk and explained my situation. They told me that because my case is considered closed, I have to pay for the papers. I cant put together any writs or motions without specifics contained in those transcripts such as names, dates, cause numbers and other information. I honestly believe ive waited too long to have a chance. I had hoped to find a couple of understanding penpals to help me with this but things havent worked out. I dont really have anyone reliable enough to log onto penpal sites and post my profile. Ive basically decided to wait until im released and see what can be done.

You commented on how my story is messed up ~~and~~ but in the end thats just life. Thats true to an extent. I know I probably sound like I complain alot in my posts. Thats not my intention. I share the negative aspects of my life so that others can see that each of us has the power to rise above the circumstances, whatever they may be. I could sit here wondering why me, but that accomplishes nothing. Its crazy how just one wrong decision can lead to a lifetime of problems and suffering. We all can look back and find something we'd do over or change but living in the past only holds us back and prevents us from building a better, more productive future. I hate what ive gone through but ive grown from it and learned from it. This experience has also taken off my blinders. I use to be somewhat judgemental but now I try hard not to be. This world is not perfect, neither are we. Each of us makes mistakes. Our lives are shaped by the way we grow and learn from those wrong turns. I cant base my choices in life off of others actions. Im in charge of my future.

Wow im sorry I went on a rant. I hope I answered your questions to your satisfaction. I look forward to ~~be~~ reading your comments in the future. I plan on trying to begin posting again on a regular basis. Im currently working on a new blog. I also plan to begin posting some of my fictional stories ive begun. Until later take care of yourself. Stay strong and dont let lifes problems beat you down. Smile even when you dont feel good. Best wishes Dreamer