

6/6/12

A, I'm back in the building!
I've been trying to figure out what I want to write about. T.I. says "I got some time, that aint nothing. I get better with time". That is how I feel! Not just about my music, but about life, about the man I've become. I love country music! Tim McGraw has a song out right now called "Better than I use to be", that song speaks volumes. It's the very way I feel, from being no Angle to being a diamond all the dust. I truly can't say that I've ever been ~~an~~ an Angle but I've grown so much in the last 11 yrs. I came to prison with a 6 grade ~~comprehension~~ comprehension level! Now I ~~have~~ ^{have} in my opinion at least a twelfth grade understanding maybe even higher in some areas. There's not one day that goes by that I don't learn something new, I try to learn something new because there's something that I can learn from everyone I come in contact with. I hope that when I get out of prison I can put the things I learn to good use so that I ~~am~~ won't be another person that makes prison into a revolving door. Don't get me wrong I am not judging my peers, it's just my ~~belief~~ belief that you should use the tools given to you not only to survive but to do good. I believe that I am "The Diamond in the Dust", I've been through hell and understand how it feels to feel dead when you're still alive. I've been to the bottom of the barrel, I've ran out of hope before. It's not a pretty sight!

There's hope, the thing is if you don't believe in anything else you've got to believe in yourself.
