

AMC 2012

Publications like the Abolitionist need to stop running so-called letters from the editor. When editors do this it makes a letter from a prisoner seem that much more insignificant. It's not just the Abolitionist, all kinds of magazines and papers run letters from the editor (they're called editorials).