

BE WILLING TO CHANGE

6-20-12

If you're not moving closer to your dream, you may not be tenacious enough in your pursuit of it. And the key to greater tenacity is not necessarily working harder at the same things, but being willing to change. Change what?

Change your thinking! Are you convinced you can't succeed? Do you describe yourself and what you're doing in negative terms? Do you stop trying to move forward when you don't have the resources you need? If so, you need to change your mindset to break the cycle of negative thinking.

Change your perspective! Do you have a short-term mindset? Are you expecting success in days, weeks, or months? The greater your assignment, the longer it's likely to take. So recalibrate your expectations and create a more reasonable timetable for yourself; otherwise, you'll live in frustration and defeat. That's not God's will for you. God wants you to experience joy in the pursuit of your goal.

Change your ways! How are things going in your personal life and in your home life? Are you ready to deal with the habits and hang-ups that stand between you and success? What can you do today that will bring you closer to your dream - no matter how small the progress? Author and publisher Robert Collier says, "Success is the sum of small efforts, repeated day in and day out."

Rechell Williams #V69138
P.O. Box 5242
CORCORAN, CA 93212