Cathy E. ☺☺

How are you ??? I got your comments on the post I wrote titled "Handling Rejection" and your words moved me. I can't thank you enough for being so sincere, kind, and wise in your words.

I agree with you totally in terms of this being "temporary control" and it is truly ~~the~~ God's destiny. I have endured "control" ~~also~~ over this time of incarceration, ultimately molding me into the man I'll need to be in this world. I hate this "prison" nonsense but I accept it as a reality that I chose and I'm daily making plans to choose a better one for myself.

3 years to go... It's almost over Cathy. I don't want to take any opportunity to grow for granted and I want to walk out of this prison with pride knowing... "I did it." As of now my goal isn't simply to get out but it's to "stay" out so I'm going to put in all the work necessary to do so.

Cathy I wish you the best and pray your family and you are strong and in good spirits. Take care, God bless, and don't be a stranger o.k. ☺

With love and Respect,
