Knee Pain & Left Leg Shrinking

I went to a hospital this past week & had a nerve test for my left leg (it is shrinking & is $\frac{1}{2}$ the size of my right leg). They tested the motor signals of my nerves & said the nerves from L3-L5 vertebrae were weak & I need a MRI of my lower back. He said the knee problem (left knee is causing me severe pain 24/7) has nothing to do with my nerve & left leg shrinking problem, so I'll need a MRI of my left knee also. Wish me luck. ☺

I am in the process of suing the prison & state for their lack of care & my pain & suffering over the last 3 years (for those 3 years the doctors here said nothing was wrong with me - I can't run & can barely walk - I walk with a limp & have fallen a lot) I have been in severe pain 24/7 over the last 3 years with no help from the doctors here. Since its so obvious that my left leg is shrinking they finally gave me that nerve test but that doesn't mean they are going to fix my problem & it doesn't help the suffering I endured over the last 3 years & still endure as of today. If anyone out there can help me with my legal help, with advice or money to help pay for legal help - You can please send me money by MONEY ORDER or www.SPAN.com to the address below. Thank you! GOD BLESS YOU. ☺
