

Flicks of Freedom, part 2

I wrote a post awhile ago called Flicks of Freedom, basically requesting flicks of the freeworld and I didn't get any responses. (Sad Face).

I'm housed in a 9 by 12 cell and all I see from day to day is a sink, toilet, shower, and four blank walls. It'd be nice to have something to see besides the space of this cell.

I'd like you to send me Flicks printed on photo paper or regular paper from the computer of "Everyday Things" that you encounter. A park, city street sign, a sunset, waves at the beach, a busy sidewalk, a parade, Sunday dinner, A club night, etc...I wanna see the world out there.

I will update this post with comments on the flicks you send in...hopefully I'll get a few this time (Ha-Ha). I look forward to seeing the world from your eyes and thanks for bringing something different to mine.
