

" G O O D L U C K ?"

Good luck doesn't help weak
What one man sow, that he shall reap
They said "Good Luck", as a way to flatter
But, the truth is: It doesn't matter
Cause what one does to another
Returns to him sooner or later
This principle was at work before us all
The seed that died in the ground, will come up
Only to make more of what was buried
So, lie! That you may be lied to Steal! So your's could be stolen too
Play games! That your life would be a game too
People do design their future sorrow or joy
If you know what you need, you'll sow good seeds that you have
Good Luck!

As for the vulnerable innocents
Are they right? They're righteous in a sense
Woe to the "Wicked" ignorants
They are right only in "their rosy lenses"
Because they don't get it, and never will
Their righteousness is only to their belly-fill
As the "Law of Gravity", so is this everlasting law
The ignorants shall not rise at all, they shall fall
Shall not "Fall" from the tree fall
Cause their senses act is their own law
They live for "Today" alone, never sow for tomorrow
For in "Tomorrow" lies the fruit of their sorrows
"Good Luck" Suckers?
