

Shooting in Colorado... Nothing to Laugh About

There have been guys in here that have found ways to joke, make light of, and trivialize the shootings in Colorado. I for one find their behavior ridiculous and totally disrespectful towards the people who are experiencing the pain of the incident.

I was told that empathy is to feel someone else's pain and walk in their shoes if only for a moment... To those this may concern, this tragic incident has made me think outside my circumstances and I empathize with you all. No one should have to experience such hurt.

None of this is funny or something to laugh about. Loss of life is never funny and what people witnessed that day will never be taken lightly. Take care out there and take the time to love one another more than ever.
