

"WHAT DOES IT MEAN....POLITICS?"

Don't let incivility become the norm in our society, where nobody cares about the next person. Honestly when I look at the news and C-Span, and see stuff like the shooting in Colorado, or hear republicans being so callous and blurting out such divisive language concerning the poor and the middle class, it makes me wonder how if we feel such disregard for each other then how does that make america the greatest nation on earth?

Because I know that if Mitt romney, is elected President in November, this country is doomed for destruction. there will no longer be a middle class in america, you will either be very poor, poor, or rich. There will be no in between, and slavery will not be a race thing this go around, it will be a class issue.

We as american have to care about each other....EPLURIBUS UNUM...."OUT OF MANY, ONE". 350 million people make up one nation, we can all do better, if we all choose to be better.

Will there ever be world peace? Absolutely, not! That was a rhetorical question, because I already know the answer. But that does not mean that we have to be so entrenched in our tenets that we are closed minded to what our fellow human being needs are. If that is the case then all is truly lost, but I am cautiously optimistic about the future. Hopefully, "MOST" of you are too. That means that you have to support President Obama, the mess~~ed~~ that he inherited was decades old, however, he has done more in three and a half years than any other president that I can remember.

Let me wrap up by saying, vote in November. You vote count, you matter, if you want to change the politics of america, then become proactive. Don't just throw your hands in the air and give up, fight for yourself and your family, especially your children's future. vote let your voice be heard. President Obama, is not a perfect man, nor a perfect President, but Mitt romney, is not an alternative, he's not even an option. He will take this country into the abyss. Romney, just came back from his over seas trip and in two of the three places he went he offended the host country. How can you be President, when you're not president material?
