Happy Birthday, Michael,

Congratulations, you've made it to your 30th birthday! I hope you get every thing you want and may all of your wishes come true. Even though there is no birthday cake being made for you or any balloons being blown and no party being planned and no family, friends, and loved ones to join you in celebration of this historic and monumental time, you are without a doubt loved, thought of, believed in, cherished, important, and so much more worth than the unappreciation of others and external sources and things you think brings you happiness. I am the only one who truly loves you, remember that! I'm all you'll ever need for happiness. I can and will make you happy if you allow me to. Please take this time to not reflect on your previous 30 years or on your future 30 years. Just focus on this moment and enjoy it. Have fun and smile, because your smile is so beautiful and sweet. You don't know how much your smile means to me and you bring joy and light into my world everytime you do smile. I know you really want your family and friends there with you, a girlfriend to share happiness with, money, and material things but you'll have to be patient and just remain in joy with being by and with yourself. Happy Birthday Michael, I love you so so much. Best wishes... and smile 😊

Love,

Michael Green
