

August 6, 2012

To my loving Jen:

It is good to hear from you.

You know I miss you....

I am sorry for how I was all those years ago, for all the hurtfully-judgmental things I said, and everything about me in general. I wasn't in a good place psychologically then. You were all I had, and as a result you got what little good I had left in me, but, you also had to deal with all my pain and frustrations that manifested itself at you--when you'd done nothing wrong, and the things I was dealing with were not because of you.

You were an angel to me.

I owe a lot to you. You brightened up a very dark time in my life, and you taught me a lot about myself. Thank you.

I've been at work at it for a while, but soon, I will be posting The Vampire Jennifer novel, blogged singly, chapter at a time with illustrations. I think you'll like it; it's my gift to you.

