

Hidden Power

If you could imagine Beauty, something so earthly perfect, I'd say it's a woman, you hear her voice and for some reason it does something to you that's unexplainable, once you see her no matter how she looks, you try to find in that one instant you pass over her with your eyes, to find something about her that would allow you to further your curiosity, no matter how unattractive a woman may seem will always find something beautiful about her... Women are such unknown to us and the rest of the world and our curiosity of them never tire, it's almost as if there being, is almost unbelievable in away, there so fascinating you have some men ~~that~~<sup>wanting</sup> to be them or believing that they are. explaining what makes a woman have a man changing the world or starting wars or becoming pimps to believe with there control over some women, to of have untold powers which would be man's greatest weakness [women].

We sometimes abuse them to control them or talk down to them to make them feel worthless or nothen without you. The mental abuse is part of man's way to subdue them cause, what man doesn't feel strong when he has a woman or controlling her, if I was to explain power I'll explain it with one word - [women]

- written by Thomas Smith: