

How is life treating you B&B viewers I hope well. Well this is my second entrance and today I'm going to talk about people behavior how some people ~~develop~~^{develop} these persona.

I'm going to talk about my persona first, but remember I have two persona, the persona got me into prison and the persona I have ~~developed~~^{developed} while being in here so I'm going to talk about the old one first.

People like me did not choose the hand they were dealt and we just play the hand with no question ask. Just look at it this way, you and I are like computers, what ever knowledge we were given growing up is what we know until we grow a mind of our own. We might grow a good mind or a bad mind. Sometime it's to late for people to change cause their in to deep, everybody knows there's good scientist that creat good things and there's bad scientist that creat bad things.

My evil scientist is my environment so I got my teaching from my society who was I to turn that type of knowledge down I was just a kid with a premature mind gathering what knowledge I could get to enter act with the type of people I was surrounded by. The people I was surrounded by were vulture, if I could not scare them away I was good as dead. If I did not pick up bad behavior in the neck of my woods I was a sinner. It would be like putting a seal in a shake tank it would not be able to survive.

I did not creat evil I did not creat guns I did not creat crimes I did not creat my environment my environment created me and I just embrace it cause I thought the life I was given was the right life.

See I was taught how to steal, how to rob, how to load a gun how to shoot a gun how to sale drugs how to smoke & drink. My society taught me how to be selfish & not to trust people. I was taught to idolize material things & money. My society showed me how to gain respect and that by putting fear in to people's heart then I would gain street cred.

By me seeing people getting shot or killed all most everyday seems normal to me. It did not seem wrong to me ~~there~~^{their} was nobody saying to me that's wrong to shot people or rob them cause everybody around me was doing it. If nobody was there to say to me that's wrong how do I suppose to tell the different between wrong from right when I see bad type of behavior being played out every day.

If you dont teach a baby how to walk he or she will not learn how to walk until later on in life. In my case I learned the wrong way to live and it cost me 18 in & 20 out later on in life I learned the right way to live.

People develop their behavior by seeing people around them doing good or bad things or by watching TV for instant a suburban kid is not use to seeing a lot of crime's being committed. When they start miss behaving they see people like me doing things and they think it's cool to do what people in prosperity do and that's miss behavior. They do not understand people that live in prosperity do not want to live like that we just embrace it cause that's the way we have to live until we find a way out that type of life. It's not fun getting shot or shot at it's not fun being broke or it's not fun taken drugs if any one say it's fun living in prosperity is in denial.

Now you know the old me was created by my society which I did not creat, the new me was created by me wanting to change cause I do not want to continue to live dishonest. For the people I've dishonest do have a chance to change their ways, they just was have to want to change.

Today I consider myself as a autodidactic type of person. For the people who dont know what Autodidactic means, it means Self taught Person. I taught myself how to read and write. I taught myself how to change my thinking patterns. Im a new self improve man, I wanted to change, I was not force to change I knew I needed to change, so the persona I carry around today is Positive energy, my mind got a up grade for the good.
For you people reading this have to understand their was no blue print to my life. I lived the best I could out there in the world but the fight is not over I'm ready for round two.

Well I'm about to park my thoughts until next time if you have any question or comment please feel free to express your thoughts thank you for your time and take care.

From yours truly
Silver Back LB
