

I think how any man treats his mother is a strong indicator of what kind of person he is. I wasn't always a good son but the time for redemption never ends when the bond in question is that between parent and child (or son in my case, grown son that is).