Nicki, in regards to your reply to my newly revised page I'll be honest I truly never thought about how most post only get a few comments - I actually felt that no one found my post insightful or worthy while, so when I spoke of trying to "appeal to the masses" I just meant that I would try to breach subjects that most people would find interesting.

I must say that after reading your comments that I agree with you - why change anything? I'll just keep putting my thoughts, and experiences on paper, and sending them in.

I truly appreciate your opinion and value your correspondence, so I hope that we can keep going. I have a lot to share with the people, and hopefully you and them will enjoy ~ I just wish more people would leave comments.
