

Deblegs - thanks for the transcription. Please e-mail the piece around to people who might care, need an understanding of the law, etc. Just include ^{my} URLs.

SAH - Does that stand for "Stupid Ass Heckler"? I assume its okay if I just call you stupid. Well, stupid, please look up "whining" in your dictionary, then specifically identify where in my posts I "whine." If you're correct, I will repent. Your whole comment was a great example of whining - "complain in a petulant way" (petulant - "childishly sulky or bad-tempered"): You "Don't know [my] case' and really don't care." I never discussed let alone "whined" about my case, but did discuss an innocent man's frame; Is that what you don't care about? Please put your name to that, so if you ever experience an injustice those who might help you can repay you lack of concern for others. Yeah, I am guilty & ain't crying about it, though the process was unfair, as was the outcome; but, hey, I killed an old man I believed deserved killing.

You say you've worked at the same job for over 50 years... Whether or not that's laudable depends on what your job is. [REDACTED]

Huh, I guess we all have some part to play in that "society" you speak of.

I suggest you rid your mind of the presumptions & propaganda it has absorbed over your lifetime & read my blog posts again, as if you were in my shoes. I can then, & only then, consider your more rational & humane comments as if I were in your shoes. Kids with cancer generally did not intentionally seek to catch cancer, ^{as with many kids in prison!} and I've known some who had it & died, when I too was a kid. You have empathy for them? Great! Feel free to print off & share any of my art with them; just include my URLs - I need the credit b/c there's a lot of asinine people out there (ooo) who don't want me or any prisoner to be known for the "good" we've done & do, like helping innocent men ^{it's good you work + pay taxes!!} get out of prison, trying to eliminate the counterproductive & costly mistreatment of prisoners.

You, spiteful old man, want me to start an "I love you" campaign for vets? Start one for me & then try to guilt me into taking up your pet causes.

"Society"? What is that? I don't recall lending anything from a "society," and I certainly was given nothing by a "society," certainly not from you. Nor do I have any concern for the society you represent, which you point out has no "care" for me. Yet, I will help humanity, because it helps me too, by doing my part to eliminate stupidity. Keep reading & learn something. Post more-rational, -humane comments so I don't have to chastise you. See the Wizard about a heart & a brain.

Hugs & Kisses, Nate.
