

i79v

Dearest Dad,

Thank you so much for you comments to recent blog postings. As always, I highly value your input into the situations I come across. My cellie did receive what I had to say about the inequalities of the way things where. I now see where I fell short in my own handling of the situation and prayerfully will be better able to express my self in the future. When do I stop having to learn so much? :)

Love,

Russ, Jr.