Hi Nicki

Last night I received your comments. Thank you. And it's okay, I understand how sometimes we write something, and people take it wrong, or more harshly than we meant it to be.

I'm really defensive about Dina and if I said anything hurtful to you I apologise. Dina is a real sweetheart. and if we were all like her, the world would be a much better place. She just went out to Texas for a rally against the death penalty. She did accept my apology along time ago.

I was wrong for what I did, and how I handled things. I let my hatred toward's Warden Barry v. Reddish get in the way of the good work that her and I were doing on the other blog. Cause all I could find in my heart was hate and revenge, which is still eating at me. I'm having problems putting it behind me. I've never hated anyone the way I hate Reddish. It goes back to what he done to me and other inmate's in 2002-03 at FSP. And then on top of that, what he done to my mom last year, that really eat's at me. And then having him have his henchmen assault me and then they murder another inmate. yeah - that's just eating away at me. Just one of my many flaws.

Well Nicki you take care of yourself and always feel free to drop me a line.

IN Peace & Love

Connie ^
