

Ronald W. Clark
November 12, 2012

"ONE MISTAKE"

Page 10 of 1

one mistake - that's all it takes to throw your life your families lives and the lives of other's into total chaos. one drug or alcohol induced stupor of a night mixed with the wrong company can change everything. And if you don't believe me, open your eyes and look at my existence. For here lies the evidence of a night of alcohol and drug induced stupor that destroyed and altered many lives.

I am left with so many regrets, so much pain, more shame and heartache than you could ever possibly imagine. my life has been one continuous mistake, never ending pain and regret. And I hope that if your reading this, that it'll make you think before you take that sip of alcohol, or hit and make a terrible mistake that's going to ruin yours and other's lives. Cause trust me - some times you just don't know how bad things can get, until one morning when you wake up from one of those alcohol stupors where you've made mistakes that you can't take back. And when you take that drink, you may not have bad intentions, you may not have a clue what the night holds for you.

The sad thing is, you maybe reading this, and you will never reflect on it until your sitting in a jail cell facing charges, cause with alcohol and drug induced stupors that's just the way it works.

one mistake - one drink - one hit and it could very well change everything. just think. Please.

Ronald W. Clark
November 12, 2012